No flag but the Old Flag—the Red, White and Blue,
With the stars of a Union unbroken and true
[illegible]
Whose blood bought the banner [illegible]

THURSDAY MORNING, SEPT. 17, 1863.

Modern Democracy Opposed to Republican Institutions.

The party which calls itself Democratic, though it includes among its members every Northern secessionist and sympathizer with the rebellion, professes to be in favor of the Union; but in all its organs and at every convention which for two years it has held in the free States, it has denounced the action of the Government in endeavoring by force to compel rebels in arms to submit to the Constitution and the laws. It has repeatedly declared that the South never can or ought to be subjugated, and that the so-called Confederacy ought to be recognized and thus the war closed. It has made such traitors as Vallandigham and Fernando Wood, its standard bearers, and by supporting and endorsing their position has justly entitled itself to be known as the apologist for and defender of secession. By so doing it has justified and endorsed the position of the Confederacy as announced by the master spirits of the rebellion—positions which we insist are utterly at war with the whole and just theory of a free Government and make Democracy an idle, hollow pretence. To prove the truth it is only necessary to present the declarations of leading conspirators which we find wisely brought together in the Marysville Appeal. Let honest Democrats read them and consider whither their party associations and prejudices are leading them. Mr. Rhett, of South Carolina, says of the rebellion:

"It is not anything produced by Mr. Lincoln's election, or by the non execution of the fugitive slave law. It is a matter which has been gathering head for the last thirty years."

L. M. Spratt, another South Carolinian, said in February, 1861, before Lincoln's inauguration:

"The South is now in the formation of a slave Republic. There are many contented to believe that the South as a geographical section, is in mere assertion of its independence; that it is instinct with no especial truth, pregnant of no distinct social nature. The contest is not between the North as geographical sections, but the real contest is between the two forms of society which have become established, the one at the North, and the other at the South. Neither could concur in the requisitions of the other; neither could expand in their forms of a single government, without encroachment on the other."

Alex. H. Stephens, the Vice President of the rebel experiment, who declared before his State seceded that the South had no just cause of complaint against the Union, announced that the object of the South was to establish a slave empire, and he considered the fathers of the Republic had made a mistake in that they did not take slavery for the corner stone of the old Union, instead of the false doctrine of "liberty and equality."

The Richmond Enquirer says the rebellion is "a distinct reaction against the whole mistaken civilization of the age," and that the South has "substituted 'slavery, subordination and government, for liberty, equality and fraternity.'"

The Southern Literary Messenger, the leading organ of rebel opinion, says: "The South is now engaged in a death struggle with a radical Democracy." It advises: "Let us seek at once to eradicate every vestige of radical Democracy," and to this end urges that no foreigner shall be allowed to exercise the elective franchise, and that a property qualification be adopted for native citizens. It adds that it has 'no special objections to loyalty, when restrained by constitutional barriers.'

The Richmond Whig says:

"The experience of the war is an attestation of the truth long discovered by impartial observers, that the master race of this continent is found in the Southern States. Of a better stock originally, they have ruled in affairs of State by force of the stronger will and larger wisdom that pertain to and distinguish superior races in men. This natural dominancy of the Southern people had much to do in bringing on the war. The inferior race, grown strong in numbers, and ambitious from prosperity, have revolted against, and now seek to overthrow and destroy those whose superiority was a constant source of envy. It is this which has so long stirred the Yankee bile. This consciousness of inferiority has galled the jealous and malignant creature until he has broken out into servile insurrection. With us the contest is for hereditary right—for the old rights of the better blood. It is the old and never ending strife between patrician and plebian; between gentle and vile."

In another article the same paper said:

"We have committed many errors in our treatment of the Yankees. Not the least has been in regarding them as something better than they really are. They are by nature menials, and fitted only for menial duties.—They are in open and flagrant insurrection against their natural lords and masters, the gentleman of the South. In the exercise of their assumed privileges they deport themselves with all the extravagant airs, the insolence, the cruelty, the cowardice and love of rapine which have ever characterized the revolt of slaves. The former [illegible] of their masters only serves to aggravate the ferocity of their natures. When they are again reduced to subjugation and taught to know their place, we must take care to place such trammels about them that they will never have an opportunity to play these tricks again. They must subdue the South or be subdued."

[illegible] of Mississippi, writes as [illegible] in 1862:

"These pestilent and pernicious [illegible], the greatest of all the greatest humbugs—[illegible] majority shall rule—are, in their practical application, the frightful source of disorder never to be quieted, [illegible] the most false and [illegible] passions the most [illegible] destructive and universal. [illegible] In America, by reason of the operation of causes [illegible] extraneous to the consideration [illegible] the republic [illegible] has been prolonged beyond [illegible] precedent. But [illegible] to all such as subscribed to the [illegible] [illegible] that the experiment of the Democratic Republic of America has failed. [illegible] Executive is the [illegible] best suited to the genius and most expressive of the ideas of the South."

And the Appeal very truthfully adds:

"We might go on quoting similar extracts until we had filled a large volume, [illegible] enough to show that the Confederates rebelled not because they had been wronged, [illegible] but because slavery had bred among them an [illegible] of thirty years growth, to establish an aristocratic empire based upon the degradation of labor, white as well as black, and the elevation of the slaveholder as a superior caste with hereditary right to rule. There is no dodging the fact that this is the fundamental idea of the Southern rebellion. And this is the loathsome thing which Democrats would acknowledge as an independent nationality! By recognition of such a political monstrosity they would prove their devotion to the Union established by Washington and Jefferson on the basis of a declaration that all men are created equal, and that the people have a right to be their own rulers. To perdition with such Democracy! No amount of [illegible] lies and lip professions of love for the Constitution can conceal its real character. They are as much the enemies of popular government as are the rebels themselves, for whom are all their sympathies. If a foreign foe were to invade the Union avowing such purposes as constitute the basis of the rebellion, no American would dare to advocate [illegible] base of peace at the price of allowing [illegible] purposes to succeed; but every citizen would rush to arms to expel such a foe. The crime of the rebels is no less because they are our countrymen, but greater. Therefore the cry has gone up—perish all traitors to American freedom and unity, and eternal shame to those who sympathize with them."

The State Fair at Salem.

[FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

SALEM, Tuesday, Sept. 15th, 186

The third annual fair of the Oregon State Agricultural Society was opened to-day at the grounds, near this city, under auspices more favorable than any of its predecessors. The weather has been for five days unsettled, with occasional showers, and last night the clouds gave down a drenching rain after the real Willamette style. The faces of the worthy people of this place as well as of those strangers who had already arrived could be seen to elongate hourly, and many murmurs of disappointment were heard, as it seemed that the same outrageous, never ceasing rain was to bespatter and bedrench everybody and everything destined to take a part in the holiday. But as the sun climbed high this morning, the clouds broke away, the faces grew brighter and shortened up some, and by midday the sun shone out clear, the storm was cleared away, and from every direction came pouring into town streams of wagons and people, with stock and articles for exhibition. From plashing mud the streets were soon dried up, and the dust being nicely laid it is now far more pleasant than if no rain had fallen.

The Society has provided more than twice the amount of shelf room and stalls and other accommodations for stock than they had last year, but according to present appearances these increased facilities will this year prove as much insufficient as those limited accommodations did last year. Nearly every stall for animals is already full, and a steady stream coming in. The entry of articles at the pavilion has been going on briskly this afternoon, and the probability is that before two o'clock to-morrow, the hour for entries to close, every corner and every table will be occupied.

It is remarked that the entries already exceed in number those of last year. The show of fruit is larger and finer than any one seems to have expected. The receipts at the gate of the fair grounds were over eleven hundred dollars to-day, and as near as can be ascertained near two thousand tickets were sold. As has been already advertised one of the features of the fair will be the military review of the Second Regiment of Oregon Volunteers. There are already four companies in camp, near the fair grounds, consisting of the Marion Rifles and Light Artillery of this place, one of Infantry from Linn county, and one from your county. Other companies are expected to arrive to-morrow. Those wishing to witness the review are advised to be on hand at two o'clock on Friday afternoon. Until that time the companies will be undergoing drill.

The programme for to-morrow will be the opening address by the President of the Society, Judge Thornton, at 11 o'clock A. M., after which a plowing match, trial of draft horses, also trotting and running [illegible] geldings and mares, one mile heat.

Your correspondent is pleased to observe that the ladies take unusual interest in the exhibition, most of them as beautiful as houris, and furnishing works of useful art as beautiful as themselves. But he regrets to say some of them are nearly as ugly as the editor of a newspaper.

THE SUPREME COURT

has been patiently grinding for seven days. Twenty six cases have been argued and submitted, but no opinions have as yet been announced by the court. There were at the beginning of the term fifty-two cases on the docket, so it may be expected that the court will be in session until about the last of next month.

A SERIOUS ACCIDENT

occurred to Mr. Thomas Rickey of this place this afternoon as he was driving home from the fair grounds. The team he was driving became frightened and unmanageable, and running against a stump smashed the buggy to pieces and severely injured Mr. R. and his little son who was with him. They were taken up insensible, but their injuries are not supposed to be dangerous. Prince Arrington and Carr of Portland, were in the carriage at the same time but escaped with some severe bruises.

POSTMASTERS.—The following Postmasters have been appointed: Jesse D. Walling, Valfontis, Polk county, and Thomas McMeeken, Pocahontas, Baker county, Oregon.

TREASURE.—Wells, Fargo & Co. brought down on the Julia last evening sixty pounds of gold dust.

By Telegraph from Salem.

The Great Union Meeting.

SALEM, Sept. 1[illegible]—[illegible] P. M.

The largest and most enthusiastic meeting ever held in this State was assembled in front of the Court House and has been addressed [illegible] by Gov. Gibbs, the Chairman, [illegible], Judge Williams, Mr. [illegible] and others. Every sentiment in favor of sustaining the Administration and the Government was enthusiastically cheered by the multitude. Allusions by the speakers to the recent elections in California and Kentucky, as well as the [illegible] of Missouri, were [illegible] applauded. [illegible] Vallandigham [illegible] Union enthusiasm was ever dreamed of.

The following dispatch [illegible] the opening of the Convention from Portland and [illegible] was hailed with enthusiastic cheers:

JOINT PRESIDENTS OF THE CONVENTION:—Portland sends cordial greeting to the Convention. Her citizens are true to the Union now and forever, without qualification or terms. Let the voice of Oregon swell the [illegible] and be firmly sustained.

[illegible] A. M. STARR,
[illegible] JOHN McCRAKEN,
[illegible] [illegible] FLANDERS,
[illegible] C. D. LEWIS,
W. S. CALDWELL, [illegible],
[illegible] W. S. LADD,
PHILIP WASSERMAN.

Additional Eastern News.

From the Sacramento Union we have the following additional news:

CHICAGO, Sept. 8th.—The [illegible] paper of last week had a rumor of the sinking of the U. S. [illegible] Vanderbilt by the pirate Georgia [illegible] Navy Department having received no [illegible] in regard to the matter [illegible] from [illegible] formerly [illegible] the Vanderbilt [illegible] the Georgia [illegible] hours and [illegible] her [illegible] for surrender which was answered by a broadside from the [illegible] steamer. Her crew [illegible] of about 400 were all drowned except thirty.

Reliable authority says the public debt [illegible] during the last six weeks [illegible] amounting to $80,000,000 have accumulated against the treasury. [illegible] $1,000,000 [illegible] of the Eastern Banks by Secretary Chase [illegible] intended to pay off the claims, leaving a handsome balance to carry the Government until the new notes are ready for issue.

Gen. Rosecrans' official report of his operations during the last campaign is complete. The whole loss of the cavalry [illegible] from June last to the present time is [illegible] killed, wounded and missing.

The receipts into the treasury from taxes on September [illegible] were the largest ever reported in one day from the same source, being $87,000.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—The gunboat Juno, which has arrived from Fernandez, reports that a British ship arrived at the island on August 17th, with a cargo of coal for a rebel pirate that sailed the same day for Bahia. The Government, it is stated, would not allow the pirates to anchor, and the Brazilians were preparing a warm reception for them should they come. The Juno has been cruising in the South Atlantic but saw no pirates.

A special dispatch from the Army of the Potomac says: The rebels prepared an ambuscade for a party of the Sixth Ohio cavalry on Friday, the 4th inst., as they were returning from a reconnoissance beyond the Rappahannock and succeeded in wounding and capturing thirty of them. Their commander, Major Price, was wounded, but escaped.

LEAVENWORTH, Sept. 7.—Mayor Anthony was arrested this afternoon by an officer belonging to Gen. Ewing's Provost Guard and taken to Kansas City (Mo.) under military escort. Considerable excitement exists in consequence.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7th.—Dispatches from Burnside dated September 4th say that when his forces arrived at Kingston (East Tennessee) some resistance was made, but the enemy soon fell back and retreated. At this point a cavalry force sent from Rosecrans' army, near Chattanooga, eighty miles distant, joined Burnside's force. The latter pushed on his column to London, at the mouth of the Little Tennessee, where a sharp fight took place, but the enemy were completely routed with considerable loss. Our loss in all the skirmishing was trifling.

The latest dispatches from Rosecrans to the Government represent the situation as entirely satisfactory.

VICKSBURG, Sept. 2d.—A division of the army was sent some days since into the Bayou Beuf and Washita country, sixty miles west of here, to break up or drive off the rebel forces that have overrun the country making laws and levying contributions on the people. The expedition was successful. From the Mississippi to the Bayou Mazon, a distance of twenty miles, the country had been laid waste, everything combustible being burned. From thence to Bayou Beuf the country is still partly settled. Thence to Washita the country is settled by wealthy planters, who warmly welcomed the troops. They had several skirmishes, however, with rebel cavalry, routing them in every instance. Our cavalry had only one killed. The loss of the rebels is not yet ascertained, but cannot be large, as all the skirmishing was in front of the cavalry.

EDWARD EVERETT ON EMANCIPATION.—Edward Everett in a letter to Rev. Dr. [illegible], of St. Louis, in relation to a sermon of the latter on the ordinance of emancipation passed by the Missouri Convention, remarks:

"I have myself no doubt that, like the apprenticeship system in the British colonies, the ordinance will, at the instance of the slaveholders themselves, [illegible] give way [illegible] emancipation. But whether it does or not, Missouri [illegible] time forward [illegible] substantially a free State, and will, I doubt not, enter upon a career of prosperity [illegible] unsurpassed [illegible] her. When I look back to the controversy which grew out of the attempted restriction on the admission of Missouri into the Union in 1820, and [illegible] Missouri Compromise in 1854, and then consider [illegible] Missouri [illegible] in 1863 [illegible] after 1870 [illegible] slaves [illegible] Providence."

WANTED.—TWENTY-FIVE GIRLS [illegible] all [illegible] HARRISH & CO.'S EMPLOYMENT OFFICE, [illegible] Front street.

Masonic.—[illegible] By order [illegible].

Agency Notice.—Mr. [illegible] P. FISHER is the only authorized Agent in San Francisco to receive [illegible] advertisements and transact business for the DAILY and WEEKLY OREGONIAN.—Office: No. [illegible] Washington street, nearly opposite Maguire's Opera House.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE DAILY OREGONIAN.

LATER FROM THE EAST.

Dates to September 11.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Sept. [illegible]—The campaign skillfully planned and energetically executed for the possession of East Tennessee, is over. A great and glorious victory has been won. Such was the rapidity of our movements that the rebels, taken unaware, fled before us without destroying property [illegible] were taken. The whole march of our troops was an ovation, and our entry into Knoxville an event [illegible] to be remembered. Thousands of citizens of every age, sex and condition, [illegible] intermingled with [illegible] the flag and [illegible] them [illegible] protection.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 11.—A dispatch to the Times dated Cumberland Gap says Gen. Ferris, with 2,000 men and 14 guns, surrendered at 4 P. M. to the [illegible] Burnside's advance.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Sterling dull at 1[illegible]. Gold [illegible]

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 10.—Judge Cadwalader, of the U. S. District Court, has decided the enrolment act constitutional.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 10.—[illegible] dispatch says: A meeting at Paola yesterday was attended by 1,500 armed men. Many were prevented from coming by [illegible]. Gen. Lane spoke [illegible] very bitter on [illegible] and Schofield. [illegible] resolutions were [illegible] policy into Missouri and Kansas as one which gives immunity to rebel sympathizers and exposes loyal people to massacre.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 10.—Official intelligence of the capture of Fort Smith was received this evening. Gen. Blunt has entered the Fort. The Creek Indians have mostly deserted the rebels. McIntosh has gone toward Red river with only 100 men out of his two regiments.

BOSTON, Sept. 11th.—A fire this morning in South Boston destroyed the boiler works and blacksmith shops of the [illegible] iron works. Loss between $20,000 and $30,000.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1[illegible].—Sterling 42. Gold unsettled, closing at 29[illegible], the fluctuation being caused by sensation reports that Charleston had surrendered. The report is probably untrue.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11th.—The following official dispatch has been received:

CUMBERLAND GAP, Sept. 9th.—To General Halleck: Since the occupation of Knoxville a cavalry force has been sent up the railroad within a few miles of Bristol, capturing the [illegible]. Another force of cavalry and infantry I have brought to this place to [illegible] reinforce Shackelford, who is here with several regiments of cavalry. The infantry that [illegible] marched 60 miles in 50 hours. The garrison here, consisting of 2,000 men and 14 pieces of artillery, surrendered unconditionally at 3 P. M. to-day.

(Signed) BURNSIDE.

CAIRO, Sept. 11.—By steamer Postboy we have information that the Washita river expedition has returned, having finally accomplished its object, namely a thorough reconnoissance of Northern Louisiana, lying adjacent to the Washita river. No enemy in organized force was found.

Letter from Salem.

SALEM, Sept. 15th, 1863.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

What with the Supreme Court, with its numerous train of attaches, and the State Fair with its motley things, Salem is no life[illegible] place at present. Soldiers file through the streets in uniform, bands of music claim their share of attention, the circus has to be patronized by the crowds of country people who have come in to see wonders, picture shows, sword swallowers, trick eaters, dilapidated negroes, and a thousand and one other humbugs made expressly for the occasion constitute their mite towards making the city a Babel.

Little has yet been done in the way of starting the Fair, except quietly entering articles to be exhibited when the proper time comes. Crowds are already here and "still they come." The weather has cleared up, and is now delightful.

The Supreme Court is working on, and has much on its hands. More anon.

CORRESPONDENCE BETWEEN THE PRESIDENT AND FERNANDO WOOD.—Your readers doubtless remember the frequent allusions made in the press to a correspondence between Fernando Wood and the President in regard to certain peace propositions said to have been received by the former in the latter part of 1862. This correspondence was published in Eastern papers for the first time Sept. 8th last. The first letter from Fernando is dated Dec. 8, 1862, and addressed to the President. He says: On the 25th of November I was advised by an authority which I deemed likely to be well informed as well as reliable and truthful, that the Southern States would send representatives to the next Congress, provided that a full and general amnesty should permit them to do so. No guarantees or terms were asked other than the amnesty referred to. Deeming this information of great value if well founded, he communicated the substance to George Opdyke, Mayor of New York, who held a confidential interview with members of the Administration, and proposed through him, that if the Government would permit a correspondence under its own inspection, he (Fernando) would undertake to procure something definite and positive from a person connected with the so-called Confederate authorities. Opdyke, however, failed to make a proposition, and therefore Wood, as a loyal citizen deeply impressed with the necessity of restoring the Union of the States, asks the President's immediate attention to the subject, and suggests that a gentleman with former political and social relations with the leaders of the Southern revolt be allowed to hold correspondence with them, the subject of the correspondence to be submitted to the President. He quotes the following language from the President's inaugural in support of his proposition: "Suppose you go to war, you cannot fight always; and when, after much loss on both sides and no gain on either, you cease fighting, the identical questions as to terms of intercourse are again upon you."

The President's reply, dated December 18, quotes the first paragraph of Wood's letter and says: "I strongly suspect your information will prove groundless. Understanding the phrase that 'Southern States would send representatives to the next Congress,' to be substantially the same as that the people of Southern States would cease resistance and submit to the National authority within the limits of such States, under the Federal Constitution, I say that in such case the war would cease, and that if within a reasonable time a full and general amnesty were necessary to such end it would not be withheld." The President does not think it would be proper now to communicate this formally or informally to the people of the Southern States, nor does he think it proper now to suspend military operations to try the experiment of negotiation. He would, nevertheless, "receive with great pleasure any exact information you now have and also such other as you may in any way obtain."

Wood replies, under date of the 17th, (?) regretting that the President declined what "I had conceived to be an innocent effort to ascertain the foundation for the information in my possession of the desire of the South to return to the Union." He does not, however, give the desired information.

SPEECH OF GEN. BURNSIDE.—The Louisville Journal of August 14th reports Major General Burnside is in Lexington.

The Observer says he was serenaded one evening, and when the music ceased, in response to loud calls for him the General appeared, and on being introduced by Colonel Worley, three lusty cheers greeted him, with a proposal from some one in the crowd to give him a hundred more. He thanked the people for their kind demonstration toward him, said he was no speaker, and those who had come to hear him with the expectancy of being interested would perhaps go away disappointed. But, notwithstanding this declaration, he did succeed in interesting an immense crowd during the short time he spoke. He alluded to the fact that he had been a Breckinridge man in the last great Presidential campaign, stating that he was as sincere and honest in that position then—because he deemed it right—as he was in his devotion to the Union now—a cause in which he enlisted heart and soul. He stated that martial law had been declared in this State preceding the recent election in view of the fact that an invading foe was on its borders, and with a design to give all loyal men a chance to cast their suffrages unmolested. The disloyal had no right to approach the ballot box, and therefore have no right to complain. He complimented Kentucky in a highly flattering manner, stating that he had found it the most loyal State in his department and had so reported it at

He complimented Kentucky in a highly flattering manner, stating that he had found at the most loyal State in his department, and had so reported at Washington. He had found more strictly loyal men here than in Ohio or Indiana, though the latter was his birthplace. We shall not, however, attempt to give his speech though brief, lest we may do him injustice, for we took no notes. The most of those who heard him seemed not only pleased with his soldierly appearance, but with what he said, and to entertain the fullest confidence in him as a commander.

Scrofula Cured.

[illegible] June [illegible]

MESSRS. A. L. SCOVILL & CO.—Gents: My son, who is now seven years old, has been afflicted with SCROFULA for more than two years. It first made its appearance in small knots on the outside of the neck under the skin. Our family physician, who attended him, said he could not [illegible] him, although he had been under his attendance when the disease made its first appearance; and instead of curing him he grew worse, until finally the sore broke, and has since continued to discharge until I got DR. MOTT'S VEGETABLE LIVER PILLS. He commenced taking them about one year ago, and in less than three months he was well, and instead of a weak, delicate child he is now well, healthy and robust. Yours truly, JAMES ALLEN.

Read what amount of Pain and Suffering can be saved by the use of DR. BAKER'S PAIN PANACEA.

KENNEDY'S CORNER, Wayne Co., Ind., Oct. 3, 1863.

MESSRS. A. L. SCOVILL & CO.—I write to let you know what BAKER'S PAIN PANACEA has done for me. Last January I was attacked with Inflammatory Rheumatism, attended with great pain; I became bedridden, and was helpless as a child. The pain was so great when I moved that it seemed as if it would take my very life. In this way I suffered for seven long weeks or more, and thought that I could never recover. I was recommended to try BAKER'S PAIN PANACEA, and I did so. I took it internally, and had my body rubbed freely with it as long as I could bear it several times a day. My pains began to give way immediately on using the medicine, and I began to have strength and appetite, and am able to be about again. It has been a great blessing to me in relieving my sufferings. In Every Age of the World, the professions have been slow to admit the value of new discoveries, or the expediency of adopting them in practice. It is not to the legal profession that we look for reforms in jurisprudence, neither do we find the advocates of medical reform among physicians. Each deprecates whatever is found to innovate upon received opinions and established usage. Hence the opposition which medical men too often exhibit to the use of private remedies, whatever their acknowledged value, or great efficiency in the cure of disease. No medicine has ever done more for the relief of human suffering than DR. OSGOOD'S INDIA CHOLAGOGUE. The certainty with which it cures Fever and Ague and eradicates bile from the system is acknowledged by all. Do you prefer a speedy and effectual cure to a regular and scientific run of disease? Try the Cholagogue, and the object is accomplished. Then tell your suffering neighbor what it has done for you, that it may do the same for him.

Gough's Apostrophe to Water.—Look at that, ye thirsty ones of earth! Behold it! See its purity! How it glistens, as though a mass of liquid gems! It is a beverage brewed by the hands of the Almighty Himself. Not in a simmering still, over smoky fires, choked with poisonous gases and surrounded by the stench of sickening odors and rank corruptions does your Father in Heaven prepare the precious essence of life the pure cold water! But in the green glade and grassy dell, where the red deer wanders and the child loves to play—there God brews it; And down, down in the deepest valleys, where the fountains murmur and the rills sing, and high up in the mountain tops where the naked granite glitters like gold in the sun where the storm clouds brood and the thunder storms clash—and far away out on the wide sea, where the hurricanes howl music and the waves roar the chorus, sweeping the march of God—there He brews it, that beverage of life—health-giving water. And everywhere it is a thing of beauty—gleaming in the dewdrop, singing in the summer rain, shining in the ice gem, till the trees all seem turned into living jewels; spreading a golden veil over the setting sun, of the white gauze over the midnight moon, sporting in the cataracts, sleeping in the bright snow curtains, softly about the wintry world, and weaving the many colored iris, that seraphs zone of the sky, whose warp is the raindrop of earth, whose woof is the sunbeam of heaven, all checkered over with celestial flowers by the mystic hand of refraction. Still always, always it is beautiful, that blessed life water! No poison bubbles on the brink its form brings no sadness or murder, no blood stains its limpid glasses; broken hearted wives, pale widows and starving orphans shed no tears in its depths. No drunkard's shrieking ghost from the grave curses it in words of eternal despair. Beautiful, pure, blessed and glorious, give me forever the sparkling cold water.

The Pennsylvania Oil Wells.—A correspondent writing from Titusville, Pa., furnishes the following in reference to the oil region in that State:

Almost as old as the hills surrounding it are the springs which once gave it the name of Oil Creek, and now makes its fame world wide. There is but one king here, and all are its subjects. The head and front, the root and branch of every species of business, in its legitimate callings—as well speculation in its most rampant form—is Oil; consequently you see, in close proximity on every side, oil depots, oil refineries, oil derricks, oil tanks, oil shippers, and the everlasting, inevitable oil team—at once a nuisance and a necessity, as you may judge from the fact that two thousand of them have passed over a given point of bridge, where a marker was kept, in one afternoon, cutting up the roads to a frightful manner, and reducing them to such a state that, between mud holes, stones, and stumps, you may well suppose that pleasure rides are not the order of the day. For bustling activity and teeming population we resemble Western towns, while dreams of wealth, wilder and more fabulous than the Arabian Nights, have been realized in a day. What do you think of "the big well," which flows two thousand barrels a day, bringing its owners an income of two dollars a minute, and supplying one third of all the oil sold here? There has been a million dollars paid by its owners for this well—one small share having been sold for fifteen thousand dollars.

These are only a few facts out of the many of the wealth accruing privately and collectively to individuals. The well owned by the Dalvell Brothers brings them eight hundred dollars a day, and a sixteenth of the Sherman well a hundred dollars a day. The revenue which accrues to the Government is five millions a year. What has the South to offer equal in resource to our oil wells?

Taking Something.—An army correspondent reports the following conversation between himself and a soldier in the guard house:

Well, my fine fellow, what are you in here for?

For taking something, he replied.

What do you mean?

Why, said he, one morning I did not feel very well, and went to see the surgeon. He was busy writing at the time, and when I went in he stopped and looked at me, saying, well, you do look bad, you'd better take something. He then went on with his writing, and left me standing behind him. I looked around, and saw nothing that I could take except his watch, and I took that. That's what I'm in here for.

His explanation was satisfactory, so I dropped the subject.

Something in Favor of Matrimony.—Powers, the sculptor, writing to a friend on what people call the folly of marrying without the means to support a family, expresses frankly his own fears when he found himself in this very position; but he adds, with characteristic candor: "To tell the truth, however, family and poverty have done more to support me than I have to support them. They have compelled me to make exertions which I hardly thought myself capable of; and often, when on the eve of despairing, they have forced me like a coward in a corner, to fight like a hero—not for myself, but for my wife and little ones."

"Aunt," inquired a medical prodigy of fifteen, fresh from a lecture on surgery, "what do you think the most difficult operation in surgery?"

"Don't know, Charley—what?"

"Taking the jaw off a woman," answered the hopeful youth.

When Gen. Lafayette was in the United States, two young men were introduced to him. He said to one, "Are you married?" "Yes, sir," was the reply. "Happy man," quoth the General. He then put the same question to the other, who replied, "I am a bachelor." "Lucky dog," said the General. This is the best essay on matrimony extant.

Sale of Slaves.—At a recent sale of slaves at Lockville, Maryland, seven young full grown, able bodied [illegible], brought together $126, or $18 a head.—[illegible]

Well we would not give $18 a head for one hundred of the best slaves in this State. They are worth a great deal more as compensated laborers, but they are not worth it as slaves. Slave property is fast losing its value and all who are not purblind with prejudice see it and feel it. The question of emancipation is a living, practical one in this State; it is upon us and we must settle it. We are as well convinced that the people of Tennessee will pass an emancipation ordinance before twelve months as we are that they ought to do it.—Nashville Union.
